

Modes of Communication

The Early Years Teaching Team is here to support you and answer any questions you may have regarding your child's early years learning journey. However, during busy arrival and pick-up times, we kindly ask for brief interactions, as these moments are bustling with activity. If you feel you need more time to discuss something, we're more than happy to schedule a meeting where we can give you our undivided attention.

Toddle is used to share daily learning experiences related to our Units of Inquiry and our Personal Social Health and Emotional (PSHE) learning programme. To get started, simply download the app from the app store and use the QR code provided to set up your account. Toddle offers a wonderful glimpse into the day-to-day happenings of EY1.

Email: For matters requiring more privacy or detail, we recommend reaching out via email. Email provides a better forum for handling higher-level or sensitive information compared to the messaging component of the app.

HAPPY Birthday

How EY1 celebrates

Birthday parties are a special occasion, especially for young children. If you'd like to provide something for your child's birthday, we kindly ask for a small muffin or fruit skewer. Photos from the event will be posted on Toddle. We've included some images for inspiration, and you can find many more great ideas on Pinterest.
